INTRODUCTION

Investor protection is one of the key priorities of the International Organization of Securities Commissions (IOSCO). The World Investor Week (WIW) is an initiative of IOSCO<sup>1</sup> to raise awareness about the importance of investor education and protection. The WIW is conducted in the week that covers the first Monday of October of each year, although the participating jurisdictions are allowed to conduct WIW-related activities in any other week of October or November. During the WIW, a diversity of outreach activities is carried out by participating IOSCO member jurisdictions.

By using the IOSCO network to facilitate a coordinated and, therefore, more powerful approach, the IOSCO WIW also provides a framework for individual jurisdictions to publicize their investor education and protection initiatives and to deliver more tailored messaging within their jurisdictions.

In October 2024, IOSCO, with the support of other organizations, carried out the eighth edition of WIW and achieved outstanding results, surrounded by different developments in the market, such as increased digitalization, the emergence of new products and services, or an increasing participation of retail investors in the capital markets around the world.

In this context, the 2024 campaign focused on three main themes: Technology and Digital Finance, Crypto Assets, and Sustainable Finance, which the IOSCO Board has identified as particularly relevant given current and expected global market conditions. Other themes covered Fraud and Scam Prevention, the Basics of Investing, and Investor Resilience.

This report compiles the information provided by the different participants in the 2024 campaign. The report describes real examples of the variety of activities organized and conducted by different participating jurisdictions, displaying a wide range of activities that could be undertaken in future World Investor Week (WIW) campaigns. Additionally, these examples can serve as a valuable resource for current or future financial education and investor protection initiatives.

IOSCO members and interested stakeholders are invited to participate in the WIW and the forthcoming WIW campaign of 2025. Please feel free to visit the WIW website (<https://www.worldinvestorweek.org>) and contact us at: worldinvestorweek@iosco.org

<sup>1</sup> The International Organization of Securities Commissions (IOSCO) is the international body that brings together the world's securities regulators and is recognized as the global standard setter for the securities sector. IOSCO develops, implements and promotes adherence to internationally recognized standards for securities regulation.

THE IOSCO WORLD INVESTOR WEEK

The IOSCO World Investor Week is a global, week-long campaign dedicated to raising awareness about the importance of investor education and protection. It also aims to highlight the various initiatives undertaken by securities regulators in these two crucial areas.

The IOSCO WIW has two primary objectives, namely (i) to disseminate key messages that support investor education, investor protection and financial literacy; and (ii) to foster learning opportunities for investors. The campaign also strives to strengthen collaboration among IOSCO members on investor education and protection initiatives while raising IOSCO's visibility among key international stakeholders.

The 8th edition of the WIW campaign took place from 7 to 13 October 2024. Its key messages centered around three main themes: 1) Technology and Digital Finance, 2) Crypto Assets, and 3) Sustainable Finance, which were further supported by three additional themes focusing on Fraud and Scam Prevention, the Basics of Investing, and Investor Resilience.

IOSCO securities regulators and other IOSCO members from six continents engaged in a wide array of activities during WIW 2024, including podcasts, webinars, conferences, and broad-reaching initiatives aimed at diverse groups. Notably, initiatives targeting young people, students, and professors are growing in relevance, leveraging innovative tools to promote financial awareness from an early age.

It was also observed that participating jurisdictions are increasingly adopting digital and virtual tools and expanding their social media presence when promoting WIW initiatives. On the other hand, some jurisdictions have made a concerted effort to maintain direct, in-person interactions with their audience, as these interactions create a more engaging and immersive experience for attendees.

An enhanced website (<http://www.worldinvestorweek.org>) was launched on 30 August, featuring more content, more colour, and increased interactivity and dynamism for users – all under the umbrella of IOSCO's new brand identity. Additionally, supporting organizations were given greater prominence, and the events promoted by some jurisdictions were showcased on the WIW website's Spotlight section. This enhancement was well-received by participants and played a significant role in fostering strong relationships for future collaborations. As a key takeaway, more space should be devoted to the Spotlight feature in 2025.

The IOSCO Committee 8 (C8) and its C8 WIW Working Group coordinated two global webinars. A summary of Global events held in WIW 2024 is presented in Annex 1 of this report.

A total of 132 entities from 118 jurisdictions participated in WIW 2024. Different global and regional organizations endorsed or supported WIW (see next section on "Supporters").

At the national level, in addition to the securities regulators, other participants supported the 2024 WIW campaign, such as self-regulatory organizations, industry associations and market participants, other financial authorities and various stakeholders (e.g. universities, schools).

WIW 2024 RESULTS

The overall results of WIW 2024, presented in this section, are derived from survey responses collected via the online form provided by IOSCO on the WIW website (Evaluations & Reporting). The post-campaign survey is a valuable tool for assessing WIW impact, with the understanding that participating jurisdictions and global organizations voluntarily submit their responses. Among the 132 participants of the WIW 2024 (jurisdictions and supporters), 55 responded to the survey.

WIW participants are also encouraged to submit a short public report on their local initiatives using the same provided online form. These materials are included as part of this comprehensive Public Report. Among the 132 participants of the WIW 2024 (jurisdictions and supporters), 56 submitted their local reports.

ABOUT IOSCO

The International Organization of Securities Commissions (IOSCO) is the international body that brings together the world's securities regulators and is recognized as the global standard setter for the securities sector. IOSCO develops, implements, and promotes adherence to internationally recognized standards for securities regulation. It works intensively with the G20 and the Financial Stability Board (FSB) on the global regulatory reform agenda.

IOSCO members have resolved:

- to cooperate in developing, implementing and promoting adherence to internationally recognized and consistent standards of regulation, oversight and enforcement in order to protect investors, maintain fair, efficient and transparent markets, and seek to address systemic risks;
- to enhance investor protection and promote investor confidence in the integrity of securities markets, through strengthened information exchange and cooperation in enforcement against misconduct and in the supervision of markets and market intermediaries; and
- to exchange information at both global and regional levels on their respective experiences in order to assist the development of markets, strengthen market infrastructure and implement appropriate regulation.

IOSCO believes the need for investor education and financial literacy has never been greater than today. As the financial marketplace continues to evolve and innovate, investment products are becoming increasingly complex and financial services increasingly diverse. Retail investors require a greater understanding of key financial concepts to comprehend and evaluate the choices available to them and to avoid financial fraud. Strengthening investor education and financial literacy programs also is essential at a time when responsibility for saving and investing for retirement is shifting from the employer to the individual in many jurisdictions.

The Ontario Securities Commission (OSC) published new research studying the impact of gamification on investors, and launched a new tool during World Investor Week.

GetSmarterAboutTrading.ca lets users participate in a simulated stock market and practice online trading. It exposes them to gamification techniques to see how they may be influenced.

During WIW, the OSC promoted resources about investing basics such as getting started with investing, how the stock market works, and types of investments and shared resources about how investments make money, how to calculate returns and fractional share ownership.

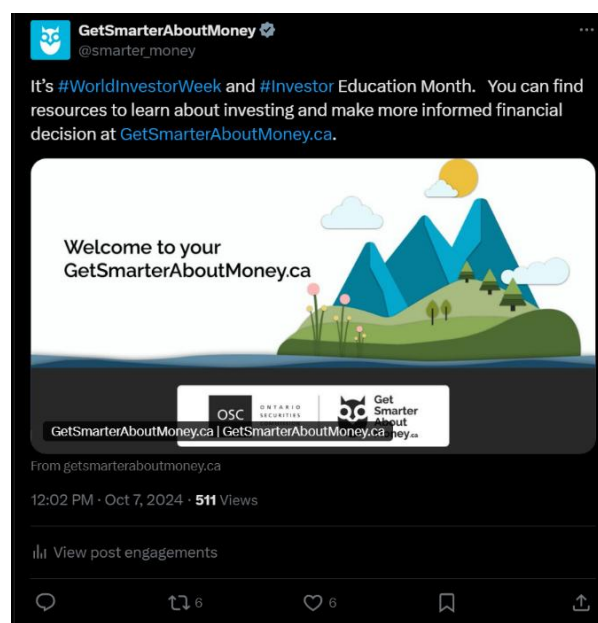

The OSC newsletter, Investor News, included a story about AI-enhanced scams and the risk to investors. A new OSC report found AI-enhanced scams can pose more risk to investors than conventional scams. The newsletter pointed readers to helpful articles on the OSC investor education website, GetSmarterAboutMoney.ca about AI voice and face cloning scams and how to spot fake websites.

The OSC also flagged the risks of relying on investing information found on social media, crypto and the connection with long-haul scammers, and published a new article, What is DIY investing and how does it work?

The OSC's free, unbiased education and outreach resources give people the tools to make more informed financial decisions.

CySEC proudly regards its participation in WIW 2024 as a resounding success, focusing on two key themes: the risks posed by influencers on social media and the role of parents in fostering financial literacy in children. To support these themes, CySEC issued two educational Guides: one addressing online risks and another for parents offering practical insights and activities to empower families. These Guides were distributed to schools, parent associations, and collaborators, aiming to reach all families in Cyprus.

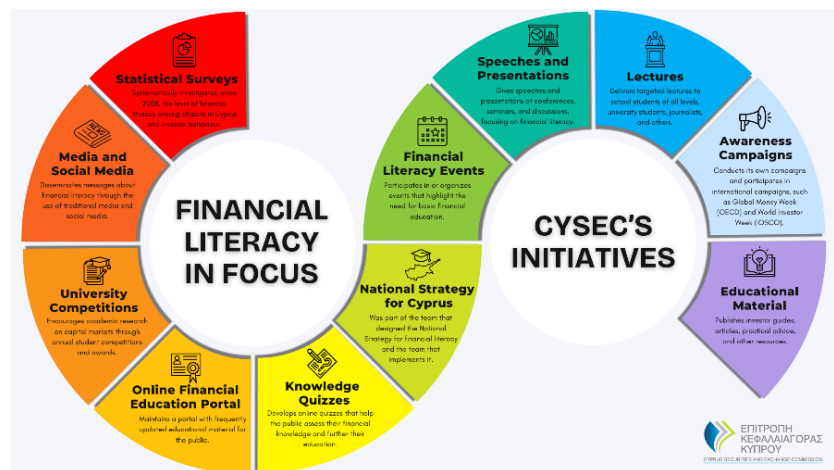

In collaboration with the Ministry of Education, CySEC delivered lectures in 17 schools, engaging 800 students. These sessions emphasized financial literacy and equipped parents and children with tools to navigate financial challenges. During WIW 2024, CySEC's Chairman and representatives participated in interviews, TV programs, and podcasts, promoting the importance of financial education and investor protection. CySEC also engaged families at a youth NGO festival through a booth, emphasizing financial literacy and distributing materials.

The campaign leveraged printed and digital media, sharing the Guides, articles, and an infographic outlining CySEC's financial literacy initiatives. Recognizing social media's influence, CySEC actively promoted its campaign online, including the Smart Investor Booklet. This approach underscores CySEC's commitment to advancing financial literacy and protecting investors, solidifying its role as a proactive regulator.

For this campaign, the Autorité des marchés financiers designed a variety of educational material including animated videos and comic strips.

This campaign was held on Instagram and TikTok as its target is mostly young investors. The assets were seen more than 14 million times. More than 23 000 people visited the landing page created for the campaign: <https://nouveauxinvestisseurs.amf-france.org/>.

WORLD INVESTOR WEEK 2024

Lead Organization: Commissione Nazionale per le Società e la Borsa (CONSOB)

Other participants: ADEIMF, ANASF, FEDUF, Global Thinking Foundation, Museo del Risparmio, QFinLab, various Italian Universities

In Italy, the WIW 2024 activities promoted by Consob were integrated into the broader calendar of the Financial Education Month (FEM), which, starting this year, has been moved from October to November. To accommodate this new schedule, events originally planned for October, including those related to WIW, were included in the official program. This integration ensured continuity and maximized outreach. The FEM, promoted by the Italian Committee for Financial Education, adopted the slogan "Financial education: today for your tomorrow", emphasizing the importance of personal finance education as a tool to make informed decisions and to face potential future challenges. Free and non-commercial initiatives were included in the calendar, available on the portal www.quellocheconta.gov.it.

WIW 2024 activities, held from October 7 to 13, focused on IOSCO's global themes: digital technology and finance, crypto-assets, and sustainable finance. These critical topics were complemented by discussions on fraud prevention, investor resilience, and investment fundamentals—continuing key messages from previous editions.

Compared to previous years, this year's WIW benefitted from stronger coordination with the FEM, creating synergies between national and international initiatives and broadening the audience reached. This integrated approach also allowed for better alignment of key messages, leveraging both campaigns to amplify the importance of financial literacy and investor protection.

Our campaign was widely shared across various platforms, including LinkedIn, X (formerly Twitter), Instagram, YouTube, and Facebook, resulting in a significant reach and engagement. The feedback from our audience was overwhelmingly positive.

In addition to our social media efforts, we also published several articles in the media and on the CMA's official website, further disseminating our insights and fostering public discourse around investment in Rwanda.

A standout feature of this year's campaign was that we organised a webinar that focused on Exchange Traded Funds (ETFs) within Rwanda's capital market. This event attracted an impressive number of participants, and the level of interaction between panelists and attendees was remarkable.

The engaging discussions not only enriched the experience for all involved but also underscored the growing interest in ETFs and their potential role in diversifying investment portfolios in Rwanda.

Our approach this year not only aimed to inform but also to engage the community. Overall, our activities during World Investor Week exemplified our commitment to enhancing financial literacy and cultivating a vibrant investment culture in Rwanda.

WORLD INVESTOR WEEK 2024

Lead Organization: European Fund and Asset Management Association \(EFAMA\)

Other participants: FSMA

The title of the webinar is “How to Encourage People to Save More for Retirement: Turning Great Ideas into Concrete Actions”.

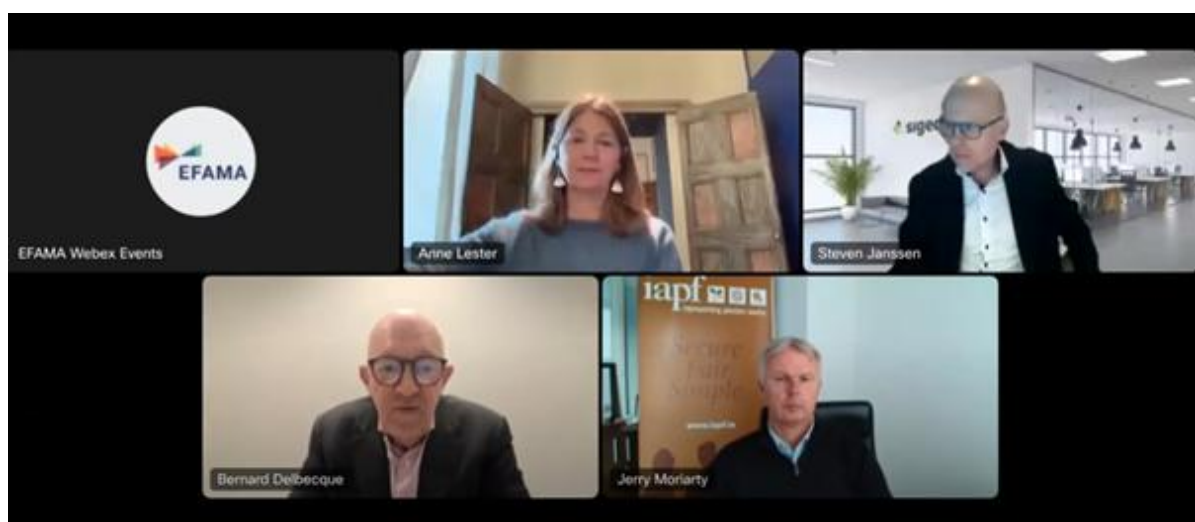

The event focused on three different tools that have proved being effective in promoting greater retirement savings: auto-enrolment, pension tracking systems and investor education.

A special emphasis was given to the importance of investor education and financial literacy because having sufficient knowledge is essential for people to fully benefit from pension tracking systems, for the following reasons:

1. Individuals need a basic grasp of inflation, purchasing power, and investment growth, to make sense of what their projected income might mean in real terms.
2. A good understanding of how their contributions, investment choices, and retirement age affect their final pension income empowers users to make adjustments as needed. Without this knowledge, they may miss opportunities to increase their future income or make choices that undermine their retirement goals.
3. Financial knowledge is necessary to ensure that people can consider other retirement income sources, like personal savings or real estate. Pension tracking systems give one piece of the picture, but comprehensive retirement planning benefits from an understanding of how multiple income sources work together.

WORLD INVESTOR WEEK 2024

As the global voice of the accounting profession, IFAC understands that promoting financial literacy is essential to our mandate to serve the public interest. Grasping the fundamentals of accounting allows non-accountants to articulate the ways in which accounting intersects with their own experiences, financial and professional. IFAC's engagement with WIW is designed to enhance the financial literacy of non-accountants.

For WIW 2021, IFAC produced a video entitled "Understanding ESG Reporting" to help break down how sustainable finance is reported and regulated. For WIW 2022, IFAC created three new videos, explaining evergreen accounting concepts so that they can be understood by first-time and lifelong investors alike, and for WIW 2023, IFAC added two new videos to this series.

For WIW 2024, IFAC added a new video "Why is Sustainability Assurance Important," in which IFAC CEO Lee White discusses where investors can find sustainability reporting information and why it may differ from financial reporting. He answers questions that investors might have.

As in previous years, the videos were published on YouTube, then promoted on the IFAC website. They were also promoted by IFAC's LinkedIn account in two separate posts, which expanded the audience of the videos to IFAC's 40,000+ followers on the social media platform, and the videos individually gathered around 3,000 organic impressions each. They had a number of likes and reposts from IFAC followers.
